CITY COUNCIL MESSAGE

Reading this newsletter you'll see that there's a lot going on in Burien these days.

The citywide roads overlay project is getting underway, with Ambaum Boulevard first on the list. Other arterials will be resurfaced after it warms up next spring. The projects are expensive and disruptive, but we think you'll agree it was worth it when we have smooth, new surfaces to drive on. The Council approved a funding plan that pays for these projects and will ensure the City's streets are adequately maintained for the next 20 years.

We were gratified to see the City's new Animal Care and Control program get off to a good start, with more than 1,000 free pet licenses issued in July. The new program will save the City thousands of dollars a year that would have been paid to King County under a proposed contract for animal control services. We hope everyone will get their dogs and cats licensed, even if you missed the free licenses during July. The cost, at $20 a year for altered pets, is $10 less than what it would have been under King County.

We're also pleased to report that despite the slow economy we are able to provide the same level of services as in previous years. We are not rich by any means, but the City is in solid financial shape. We have not had to cut back on staff and programs, and it appears this will continue for at least the next few years.

It's wonderful to see the new Burien Town Square Park busy with people this summer, from the Strawberry Festival to the Farmers Market, and the kids playing in the park fountains on hot days. The park, and the rest of Burien Town Square, has truly become a central gathering place, just as was planned. Because of the slow economy, it may take longer for the rest of the Town Square phases to be developed than was hoped for, but we're confident it will be completed and become the community centerpiece envisioned from the start.

'Burien Alert' Offers Options for Receiving Emergency Calls

Beginning Sept. 15, Burien residents and businesses will have a new way to receive alerts about natural disasters and other emergencies. Burien Alert is a mass notification system that enables emergency officials and other first responders to notify residents via a "reverse 911" type of message.

The system notifies residents and businesses about significant risks to health and safety. Public safety officials can send alerts about emergencies such as severe weather, floods, utility disruptions or critical police activity. Emergency alerts may be sent 24 hours a day, based on severity. When a number is called, the person receiving the call will be instructed to press 1 to hear the message. The emergency or community alert will follow.

Households and businesses with a land line will automatically receive the emergency alert. The system allows individuals the opportunity to 'opt-in' their alternative electronic devices, including cell phones, work phones, text messages, e-mails, and more.

Residents and businesses can opt in on the Internet by accessing the Burien ALERT button at the bottom of the City Web page at www.burienwa.gov and following the opt-in instructions. People without access to the Internet can come to City Hall for assistance opting in. General information and frequently asked questions about Bur-ien Alert can be found at www.burienwa.gov/Alert. Besides choosing how to receive emergency notifications, users also can choose to receive alerts regarding locations of interest - emergencies that may affect a residence, workplace, child's school or other areas that are within the Burien city limits. Businesses benefit when their employees opt in because wherever they are, information can be relayed to their employees about local emergencies.

Everyone with land lines will continue to receive emergency notifications, regardless of whether they opt in with other devices. Those who opt in will receive an emergency notification on their land line or on devices they chose when they opted in.

Earthquake Drill Oct. 6

On Wednesday, Oct. 6, the City of Burien will participate in a county-wide earthquake drill. The City will open its emergency operations center and perform functions as if the incident were real, including communicating with residents and businesses.

You may see an alert on the City Website, or hear an emergency radio broadcast on Radio Free Burien 540 AM or view one on Burien Channel 21. People with telephone land lines or who have signed up to receive alerts over their cell phones and other devices will receive a call from Burien Alert.

Shoreline Master Program Update Progresses

The proposed Shoreline Master Program update has generated a great deal of public interest, with dozens of citizens, many of them residents of the Lake Burien and Three Tree Point area, offering their views to the City Council at Council meetings or in letters to the City. Two areas of high public interest were potential public access to Lake Burien and restrictions on waterfront structures on the Puget Sound shoreline.

A last public hearing before the Council was scheduled to be held Monday, August 30, after the press deadline for this newsletter. The Council was scheduled to approve the Shoreline Master Program in early September. Following Council approval, the state Department of Ecology (DOE) will conduct a public hearing at a local site. (Watch for further details.) The state agency will review Burien's proposed shoreline program to ensure that it complies with DOE guidelines. The program must be approved by the DOE before it can take effect.

The DOE in 2004 established guidelines requiring cities in the state to update their shoreline master programs. The shoreline policies were mandated by the state Legislature in 1971 when it adopted the Shoreline Management Act.

See the City Website at www.burienwa.gov for the latest information on the proposed Shoreline Master Program. Go to Departments, Community Development, Planning, Shoreline Master Program Update.

North Burien Property Finally Brought into Compliance

When North Burien was annexed in April 2010 the City inherited a property with multiple code enforcement issues. The City is pleased to report that the property, located just north of Burien City Hall North along Des Moines Memorial Drive South, was brought into compliance on June 25. Three dilapidated houses on the property were of serious concern to the neighborhood as well as the police and fire departments with reports of drugs, prostitution, vagrant living, trash/garbage and arson.

The City worked with the property owner to demolish the houses and clear the property of debris. This had been on King County's agenda since March 2009 and was one of the larger code enforcement files turned over to the City when annexation took effect in April.

Watch for Students, School Buses

With the new school year underway, more children will be out walking to and from their schools. Drivers are urged to drive cautiously near schools and be aware of the students. Also remember that traffic in directions must stop when approaching a school bus that has stopped to pick up or drop off students.

2010 - 2011 Road Overlay Program

Work is beginning late this summer on a large road resurfacing and repair project that will affect anyone who lives or does business in Burien and travels on its arterials.

Nearly the entire length of Ambaum Boulevard in Burien, from Southwest 112th Street to 4th Avenue Southwest, will be repaired and resurfaced this fall. Sections of other arterials will be resurfaced and repaired (see map right) either this fall or in spring of 2011.

Drivers can expect road closures, detours and traffic delays in the construction areas. Businesses along Ambaum will remain open during construction. The City will take measures to ensure that the public is well informed about street closures and traffic delays that might impact residents and businesses.

The City will provide information to residents and businesses through the local media, advertisements, letters, e-mails, and Website postings. Watch for further details about the meetings and information about the projects.

Southwest Suburban Sewer District is conducting a pipe rehabilitation project in the Chelsea Park area that is also having impacts on local traffic.

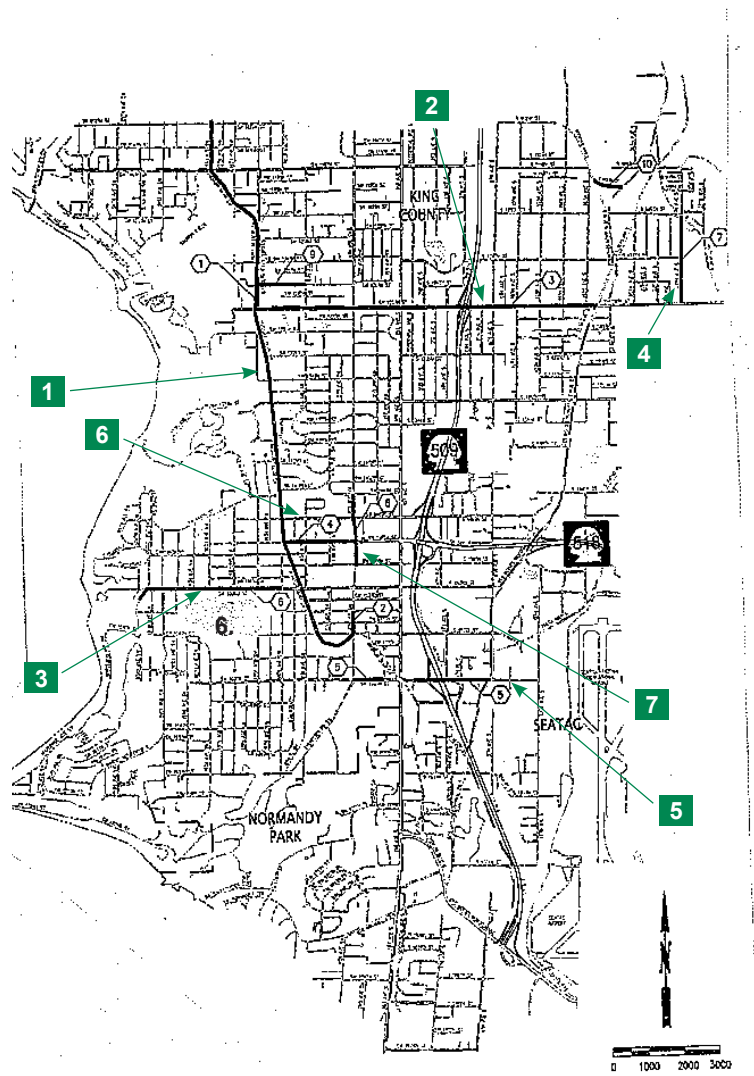

The contractor for the Ambaum project is Tucci & Sons, Inc. of Tacoma. Besides installation of a new asphalt surface, the curbs and sidewalks will be repaired, curb ramps replaced, utilities moved, and storm drainage system repaired. The Ambaum resurfacing project should take about two months, while the other roads listed will be resurfaced in 2011.

The resurfacing project is being funded through a combination of bonds and revenue from a newly formed Transportation Benefit District and $10 car tab fee approved by the City Council in June. The City's new street overlay program being funded through the TBD includes all arterials in Burien and will ensure that City streets are well maintained for the next 20 years.

1st Avenue South reconstruction

Another major road improvement project is the Phase 2 project of the 1st Avenue South reconstruction, from South 146th to South 140th streets. The project is going out to bid this fall, with construction expected to begin in 2011 and take two years.

The 1st Avenue South reconstruction is a separate project, funded through a combination of federal, state and local money. It includes reconstruction of sidewalks, storm-water detention and water quality facilities, center medians and left-turn lanes, signal improvements and interconnections, landscaping and irrigation. The project follows completion in 2008 of Phase 1 of the 1st Avenue South project, from South 162nd to South 146th streets.

Burien's New Animal Care and Control Program Off to Good Start

On July 1, Burien began offering full Animal Care and Control service, including a new state-of-the-art sheltering, adoption and medical facility.

More than 1,000 free pet licenses were issued during July as the City kicked off the "Tag. You're It!" informational campaign to alert residents to the change in animal services. Some 120 free pet licenses were issued at the official kick-off event July 8 at the Music in the Park concert at Lake Burien School Park.

Dr. Leslie Kasper, DVM, is the new director of Burien Animal Care and Control. Dr. Kasper is a Burien resident and a graduate of Tyee High School and Washington State University's College of Veterinary Medicine. Her medical clinic, Companion Animal Medical Center, 19655 1st Ave. S., is the City's new animal shelter.

Burien's animal shelter was constructed in 2009 and features separate wards for cats and dogs, digital x-ray equipment, full service laboratory and an isolation room with separate air system to prevent the spread of contagious disease.

Annual licenses are $20 for altered pets and $50 for unaltered pets. Licenses are good from July 1 until June 30. Current pet licenses issued by King County Animal Control are valid in the City through June 30, 2011. County licenses can be exchanged for City of Burien licenses at no charge. Pet owners of altered animals must bring documentation of the surgery in order to get the lower rate.

Senior citizens may buy a permanent license for their altered pet for a one-time charge of $15. Lifetime licenses issued by King County will be honored. Licenses are free for service animals with documentation.

Dr. Leslie Kasper is director of Burien Animal Care and Control.

Lost pets will receive a free ride home the first time they stray from home if they are wearing a Burien license. An impound fee, a violation fee and kennel fees will be charged to owners of stray dogs found without a license.

Dr. Kasper recommends to pet owners to be sure their dogs or cats are spayed or neutered. Dogs and cats that have not been "fixed" are more likely to bite, leave the yard, get hit by a car, and encounter other hazards.

"Pets that are left intact have a natural drive to protect their territory," she said. "They are more likely to leave their yard to find a mate."

Dr. Kasper also recommends that all dogs and cats be licensed, even when they are house pets and rarely get out. "There are always situations where even an house pet gets out. A license increased the likelihood you will be reunited with your pet if it is lost."

City Avoids Cutbacks as Work Begins on 2011-2012 Budget

As the City Finance Department begins work on the 2011-2012 biennial budget, the City Manager reported to the City Council on August 2 that unlike many cities and other local governments, the City of Burien is financially stable.

"We are in good financial shape," City Manager Mike Martin told the City Council. "We're not rich; we're in the same volatile economic environment as every other city. You won't see a bunch of new initiatives. We are not increasing service levels, but we are holding our own and doing just fine." Martin gave the Council credit for longstanding council policies on handling the budget that have put the City in very good standing. He told the Council that the bonding agency that recently reviewed the City's finances in preparation for issuing bonds were impressed by the City's solid financial standing.

Interim Finance Director Gary Coleman explained to the Council that the City's 6-year financial plan shows a structural deficit in 2013-2014 where revenues will not quite cover expenditures. However, the City's different fund balances will continue to grow and will be enough to cover any deficit. Coleman said the City can divert discretionary income in the funds.

"That's why we're able to tell you we are in good shape and are not concerned about the deficit," he said. Coleman has been the City's Accounting Manager for 12 years and has helped the Finance Department win awards and recognition for its budgets and years of perfect "no findings" audits by the State Auditor's Office. Burien was just notified by the State Auditor's Office that the City received a clean audit for 2009, the 11th year of perfect audits.

The preliminary budget will be available for public review beginning Oct. 4 at Burien City Hall, 400 SW 152nd St., Suite 300. A public hearing on the budget is set for Nov. 8., 7 p.m., at the Council Chambers at City Hall. The Council is scheduled to adopt the two-year budget on Nov. 22.

Economic Development

Work Starting on Transit Garage

Construction is expected to begin in September on the Burien Transit Center's new parking garage. The garage will be constructed at the southwest portion of the current park-and-ride lot at 4th Avenue SW and SW 150th Street. It includes more than 460 spaces, with 50 available for plug-in electric vehicles; nearly 40 spaces will be provided outside adjacent to the garage. Five stories will be above ground with one story below ground. The construction should be completed in about a year.

The current park and ride lot is closing in September when construction is expected to begin. The former BBC Dodge site at 1st Avenue South and South 148th Street will be used temporarily as a park -and-ride. Bus routes that stop at the Transit Center will also stop at the former BBC Dodge property. The $20.5 million garage is the first phase of a planned transit-oriented development. The second phase includes 100 affordable apartment units with retail and office space. Funding for the garage project was included in the Sound Transit 2 ballot measure, approved by the voters in 2008.

Other news related to economic development in Buien:

- Grand Central Bakery, 626 SW 152nd St., was scheduled to open by late August. Grand Central, which has several locations in Seattle and Portland, specializes in freshly baked artisan breads, hand-made pastries and sandwiches.
- Piranha Joe's restaurant opened last spring at the former Keg Restaurant site, 180 S.W. 148th St.
- Car Pros has been issued a building permit to open a auto dealership at the former site of Burien Nissan, 16042 1st Ave. S.
- NAVOS is opening an outpatient mental health center at a new, three-story building at 1210 S.W. 136th St. The center will house offices and counseling facilities.

Stop Illegal Connections to Storm Drainage System

One of the most severe storm-water pollution concerns nationwide is the discharge of non-storm-water to the storm drainage system. Examples are discharges from internal floor drains, appliances, industrial processes, sinks, and toilets. These are illegally or inadvertently connected or drained to the nearby storm-water system. These discharges must be connected into a sanitary sewer system, a holding tank, or on-site process or waste-water treatment plant system.

For more information on whether your discharge or a discharge coming from any other property meets the above standard, or to report a potential illicit discharge into Burien's storm-water sys-

Soil at Parks Being Tested for Pollutants from Smelter

Parks throughout the region, including those in Burien, are undergoing soil sampling by the Washington State Department of Ecology (DOE). The testing is funded through the state's environmental damage settlement with Asarco, which for almost 100 years operated a copper smelter near Tacoma. Air pollution from the smelter settled on parts of King, Pierce, Kitsap, and Thurston counties, and arsenic and lead in the soil may pose a health concern at some child play areas.

Results will determine which if any sites will be subject to cleanup efforts that would involve the removal and replacement of topsoils. For more information, go to:

New Sculpture Lights Up Community Center

A beautiful new water sculpture entitled "Lighthouse" has been created and installed in the new Burien Community Center's outdoor atrium thanks to Puget Sound Skills Center (PSSC) instructor Dale Copeland, who designed the sculpture, and his welding program students. "Lighthouse" was created to represent a large shape of a coastal rock formation and made from steel sheet metal. Each student created his or her own tree and signed them before placing them upon the rock, which also includes a beautiful lighthouse as a focus point. The artwork is visible upon entry to the Community Center.
